On a cliff, in one of Bali's most traditional regions, sits Amankila or "peaceful hill", offering a chic, serene setting overlooking the Indian Ocean. Nestled below the resort are the private stretch of "pepper-sand" beach and the Beach Club, inviting guests to lounge on bales or enjoy various watersporting activities.

The elevated free-standing suites, designed as Balinese Beach houses, feature canopied beds and expansive outdoor terraces and showcase spectacular views. At the heart of the resort is the terraced rice field inspired three-tiered pool with amazing panoramic ocean views.

Dining options include The Restaurant for dinner, which overlooks the infinity pool, the poolside Terrace Restaurant for breakfast and lunch, and Amankila's Bar with its views of the sea. Daily afternoon tea is served in front of the library, by local women dressed in sarongs and kebayas. The high staff-to-guest ratio allows for impeccable and very personalized service.
