

FOUR SEASONS RESORT COSTA RICA AT PENINSULA PAPAGAYO

Spilling down a lush mountainside on an isthmus of golden sand, Four Seasons Resort Costa Rica at Peninsula Papagayo offers natural luxury in a lush tropical setting. With expansive beaches on either side, sweeping panoramas of the Pacific, renowned eco-adventures, indigenous spa, Arnold Palmer golf and access to the magic of the rainforest, this unspoiled destination is highly sought after by travel cognoscenti. It quickly established itself as a leading luxury destination and is a past recipient of the Island Destinations Travel Agent's Choice "Resort of the Year" award. The golf course ranked one of the world's best outside the United States by Golf Digest.

Guest accommodations are designed with indigenous woods and finishes. Every guest room and suite seamlessly blends the indoors with the outdoors by using balconies or terraces extending from the interior to private outdoor lounging. The resort is located in the north-western region of Costa Rica within the Guanacaste province. Activities include deep sea fishing, horseback riding, canopy zip-lining tours, river floats, nature tours, or guests can relax at the resort, by the beach or be pampered in the spa.
